CLEAR THEM OUT

The session of Knox church, Calgary, called attention a few days ago to a condition of affairs by no means peculiar to Calgary, which should receive very early and very vigorous attention from the citizens and civic authorities of western cities and towns generally, and nowhere should the attention be earlier or more vigorous than in the city of Edmonton.

The session passed the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the session views with alarm the spread of vice in this city; that in its opinion the action of the chief of police in connection with recent occurrences has tended to the encouragement of evil doers, rather than the protection of respectable people."

"The session therefore urges the members and adherents of this congregation to use every influence in their power to bring about a better moral condition in this city."

With the allusion to the action of the Calgary police department, Edmonton people have of course no concern, but the problem apparently referred to confronts them quite as certainly as it does their southern neighbors and the obligation to deal with it is quite as strong. That Edmonton should have a "red light" district is a standing disgrace to the community, a menace to the morals of the rising generation and a material drawback to the settlement and development of the section of the city in which it is located; the longer it is tolerated the greater the disgrace, the greater the nuisance and the greater the damage to the property owners and residents of the district.

That apostrophe "round up" have been made in true, but they have not resulted in the abolition of the nuisance is notorious. The management of the police force is in the hands of the city commissioners and it is up to the mayor as chairman of that body and chief executive officer of the city to insist that the chief of police to abolish the "red light" district. When it is made more dangerous than profitable to conduct houses of ill repute the city will be freed from the curse.

THE CALL OF THE WEST

Mr. Robert Kerr announces that the new C. P. R. passenger agent is being sent to Winnipeg in answer to "the call of the West." Mr. Kerr's hearing is defective. "The call of the West" just at present is for box cars, not Ubers. The West would be willing to take chances on ushering itself if the cars were supplied and might even be persuaded to swap the new official for a good consignment of ties.

INFORMATION AVAILABLE

Winnipeg Telegram: "A short interrogatory telegram to William Whyte, C. P. R., Winnipeg, at any date for weeks before the spectacle of the fuel famine stalked across the frozen prairies, would have brought a answer that should have awakened the sleepy minister of labor and have brought the portentous Mr. 'King speedily westward.' A short interrogatory telegram to the Frank board of trade at any date for weeks before the fuel famine began to stalk would have brought an answer that should have awakened the sleepy C. P. R. and brought the portentous Mr. William Whyte westward with all the freight cars he could collect en route."

SCORE ANOTHER

Winnipeg papers are urging the city council to consider the question of placing the telephone, telegraph and electric light wires in conduits, arguing that this should be done while the city is young and before the number of wires becomes as great as in Toronto or Montreal. Score another for Edmonton. We have not yet the population of Winnipeg, but nothing of Toronto or Montreal, but arrangements have already been made to dispose of the overhead wires. While the new telephone system is being installed next summer underground conduits will be laid, the telephone, telegraph and electric light wires placed in them and the streets cleared of poles. The change will improve the appearance of the streets, will remove a source of danger and prevent interruptions of service by fires or storms.

IT MAKES A DIFFERENCE

The Calgary Chronicle, dealing with the coal situation in that city suggests that the possibility or impossibility of securing coal cars depends on who owns the mines. The Chronicle says:

"Strike or no strike, there always will be a shortage of coal in this district as long as the present arrangements for freight distribution remain in force. We do not refer so much to the lack of cars as to the unjust and illegal discrimination on the part of the C. P. R. in utilizing what they already possess. For instance, Bankhead coal can be obtained in Calgary at any time, or very nearly so, for the very simple reason that the Bankhead mines belong to the C. P. R. and in order to further its own interests the company takes care that a plentiful supply of cars is always maintained at that point. But from Lethbridge, and from all points south, it is almost impossible to obtain coal at any price, for no other reason than that the C. P. R. will not supply cars for it to be hauled away."

"That is what is happening while we are shivering and freezing to death in Calgary. On the one hand we have Bankhead, where cars are as plentiful as blackberries in summer; and on the other hand we have Lethbridge and Frank and other districts in the south, where miners are continually lying idle owing to the fact that the greater part of the time it is absolutely impossible to obtain cars."

THE COMMERCIAL VALUE

Calgary papers are displaying considerable concern these days in the census returns, which perhaps is natural considering that the returns substantiate the claim that the larger portion of Alberta's population resides south of Red Deer. The Alberta, however, presents the somewhat novel argument that the difference in number is more than counter-balanced by the difference in quality and that the smaller population south of the imaginary line is of greater commercial value to the community than the larger number north of the line. The point is probably a matter of opinion but that the Alberta is forced to raise the point to hide its abandonment of the claim of larger number, suggests that the argument is one of emergency rather than of choice.

Moreover this may be the Alberta may be assured that Edmonton is quite satisfied with the people of its territory country, satisfied with the progress they have already made and the growth and trade they have already brought to the city; and satisfied also with the certainty that the progress already made and the trade already created are but forerunners of greater things to come. Whether or not the rancher contributes more than the farmer man for man to the commercial welfare of the community may be a matter of dispute; but it is not a matter of dispute that a farming population is preferable to a ranching population as contributors to the city's trade. The proof is the fact that Calgary's present and prospective growth largely depends on the presence of a ranching country to the south of a ranching country into a farming country.

THE YEAR WITH THE RAIL-ROADS

(Montreal Weekly Herald)

Never in the history of the Dominion have the railways had such a year as that which closed on Monday.

Increase—great. But, but, the increase has been the result of the fact that the railways have been able to handle a much larger volume of traffic than in any previous year.

It is true the system has had to pay more for fuel, more for material, more for equipment than in any previous year.

As the calendar year and the railway year do not synchronize and as the railways will not themselves have anything like accurate returns available for at least another month or two, it is impossible to give a complete and satisfactory statement of the results.

This much can be said that the results have been of a remarkable character as regards the upsurge operating in the west, east and middle of the country. This is, of course, due to the widespread prosperity.

When the Canadian Pacific closed its accounts for its financial year, which ended on June 30, it showed gross earnings to the amount of $61,678, and the working capital as increased to $13,444,444.

The gross earnings for the year ended on Dec. 31—the figures for the current year are not yet available—were $61,678, as against $51,678 for the corresponding month of 1906.

So far as the Grand Trunk is concerned, the gross receipts for the first ten months of the year 1906 amounted to $1,141,275, as against $1,141,275 for the corresponding month of 1906.

of November, the date of the last Grand Trunk figures yet compiled, the increase in the gross earnings have continued in the same proportion.

The fact that the financial year is the final test of success.

It is not by the earnings capacity alone that the railways are to be judged although it will be generally conceded that the financial year is the final test of success.

Another notable feature for the year has been the increased business capacity through the gradual extension of the freight train.

The result development of the country through the extended freight train and the expansion of business and the expansion of business.

that could be paid to the Canada of today. When Americans find a neighbor country sufficiently attractive to make them leave their own soil, there must be evidence of material prosperity and assurance of wise government in the land to which they are lured.

As far as we can see the Canadian Government is discharging its duty honestly and ably to the Dominion.

One note with pleasure the absence of serious scandals in administration and one half suggests that we may possibly have something to learn from them in that respect.

SIX MILES PER HOUR.

Regina, Jan. 6.—The train on the Canadian Northern which left Regina, Alberta, which was due to arrive in Regina on Thursday night, arrived on time and its appearance (the train) of a terrific trip over its 250 miles in about forty hours, or its train men describe the trip as the most terrible in all their railway experience and they pronounce the crash on the worst in the history of the country.

IMMIGRATION OF THE UNITED STATES.

Washington, Jan. 6.—The fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, produced a record of 1,141,275 immigrants, which is the highest record in the history of the United States.

The country from which we formerly imported the most immigrants was Germany, which furnished 250,000.

MAY DAM NIAGARA.

Buffalo, N.Y., Jan. 6.—Having decided on the Chicago drainage canal question and the International Boundary line on Lake Erie, the International waters commission will next take up the old question of damming the lower end of Lake Erie so as to raise the level of the lake. Lake Erie has been under consideration for a long time and it is understood the commission decided to take up the problem next month.

While no definite plan has been submitted to the commission, the general scheme is to build a great dam of regulation works at the lower end of Lake Erie or some where in the Niagara River.

FATHERS OF CONFEDERATION.

St. John Globe.—The "fathers of confederation" are gradually passing from the scene of their labors. St. W. P. Howland, K. C. N. G. C. B., who died in Toronto on New Year's Day, was one of the delegates to the conference held in London, England, in 1867 to complete the terms of the union of the provinces.

He had been active in public life before that period. He represented West York in the Canadian House of Assembly from 1857 to the union, and for part of that time was a member of the government being Minister of Finance for a brief period.

When federation was accomplished he was elected to the House of Commons as a member for New York, and entered the first government of Sir John Macdonald as Minister of the Interior.

He was a member of the House of Commons from 1867 to 1871, when he became Lieutenant Governor of Ontario. On retiring from that position in 1871 he was practically withdrawn from public life, although in 1875 he was appointed a commissioner to report on the route of the proposed Erie Canal.

interpreting Japanese merchants in the ree foreign trade is a circumstantial that without the trade investigator to himself. If it had been in the same language, would be that he had been too enough a "bawler of words and drawn the ports, and intends to do his own foreign trading." That is indicative of the merchant as soon as he feels himself able to make the venture.

There is a second merchant, who is generally speaking, a highly respectable and responsible agent, standing as a representative of the foreign market.
It is to his pioneer venturing that this country is indebted for the opening of the trade with Japan, and that he is passing, but he has not yet passed away, nor is he likely to "expend" his money in the same manner recent. He will doubtless admit himself to the changed conditions as they considered, and he will be glad to see the foreign elements in trade have interest as interpreted as to be mutual, and the country will be glad to see the will afford compensation for the passage and the "flowing of sugar as showing the country of the world, and the larger profits."

Two buildings have been erected in the year coming very nearly $250,000 each. The Walker theatre comes next, the permit cost being $200,000. There were three buildings erected at a cost exceeding $150,000; two between $125,000 and $150,000; five between $50,000 and $125,000; three between $25,000 and $50,000; and four between $10,000 and $25,000. Nine between $5,000 and $10,000; nineteen between $1,000 and $5,000; and sixty between $200,000 and $10,000; and 100 between $100,000 and $200,000. The balance of the buildings totals is made up of the cost of structures requiring less than $10,000.

ABOUT YOUR HEADACHE!
YOU MUST AGREE TO THIS

That headache does not necessarily mean there is anything wrong with your head! That being so, you must look to some other organ for the trouble. Is the ache in the forehead and back of the head? That is rheumatic headache. Is it on one side of the head only? That is what the doctors call "migrain." Both kinds "form" arise from lack of tone in the system. They are caused by nervousness, over-tiredness, or are accompanied by sickness or foul breath or constipation. That kind of headache is a clue to liver and stomach disorder. Nine out of ten cases of headache are of these causes. There are two methods of treatment. One is to take headache powders. This is like trying to escape pain by taking chloroform. The other is to find the cause and remove it. Your derangement are causing the trouble. That is the Hilean way!

OUTPOSTS IN THE NORTH.

(From "Canada.")

Although Britain's territorial possessions in the Arctic were handed over many years ago to Canadian authority, it is only within the last few seasons that the Dominion has shown herself fully alive to the responsibility that this trust carries with it. In the region north of Baffin's Land there has never been any attempt to plant permanent establishments. Therefore, it is from every point of view desirable that the title of the British crown to the vast region in question should be secured from time to time by acts of formal possession, lest after neglect should endanger the claims established by a long line of hardy British navigators, stretching back to the earliest discoveries in the American Arctic 250 years ago by Sir Martin Frobisher.

The acquisition by Spain of the southern portions of America, together with Portugal's claim to the southern coast of India and China, via Cape of Good Hope, made it look in the sixteenth century as though Britain was to be barred from new fields of wealth that the discoveries of Vasco da Gama had revealed in the Far East. It was the search for a northern and unclaimed passage to the Far East that stimulated, in the reign of Elizabeth, the awakening enterprise of London and Bristol merchants to outfit expeditions, under brave and adventurous seamen, to open the route in question. Filled with enthusiasm by the accounts of a mythical Strait of Anian, which, was supposed to afford a safe passage between the Atlantic and the Pacific, through the north temperate regions of America, expedition after expedition continued until hardships before it was finally established in the nineteenth century that the northwest passage existed at all.

In the summer of 1902, and again in 1906, Canadian government expeditions have penetrated Lancaster Sound, the islands of which it is known as the Parry group. Both Commander Low in 1902, and Captain J. E. Bernier in 1906 touched at Beechey Island, where a monument marks the memory of the gallant Franklin and his heroic associates.

Captain Bernier reports that he restored the Sir John Franklin monument, replaced the stone in a proper place, and repaired the four wooden crosses on the barren plain near by that mark the last resting place of two of Franklin's crew, and two members of one of the rescue parties that reached Beechey Island in their quarters during the time that search was being made for Sir John and his associates. Commander Low is of opinion that if another expedition visits this place it should carry the material to build a suitable foundation for the slab, so that it may be erected as originally intended.

Captain Bernier took formal possession last summer of Melville Island, Baffin, Patrick, Edouard, Kennedy, Ryan, Martin, Bathurst, Cornwallis, Griffiths, Lowther, Young's, Garrett, Russell, Darcy and Bylot. He is now wintering at Pond's Island, on the north-western coast of Baffin's Land, preparatory to pushing northward next season, between Ellesmere and the western coast of Greenland, as far as he is able to get.

Commander Low, on the occasion of his voyage four summers ago, reasserted the British claim to the entire, the second largest island of the American Arctic. The Canadian government cruiser Arctic, however, which is ideally adapted to work in the Far North, will almost certainly push farther than Mr. Low had time to travel, and will no doubt continue the assertion of Canadian authority in this manner as may be deemed best.

Captain Bernier, who has already spent a lifetime on the sea, will undoubtedly follow the course that Amundsen adopted, through the Northwest Passage to the mouth of the Mackenzie river, and has applied to the Dominion government to be allowed to test the theory that the drifts from that quarter would carry the Arctic across the pole.

CANADA'S FINANCE MINISTER.

(Montreal Daily Herald.)

When one sits down to contemplate Mr. Fielding's tenure of the office of finance minister is a thing to excite admiration says the Montreal Herald. It is not only his length of service, although even there he has made a record never equaled and which is likely to be beaten in this country. But consider that when he came in he had to make thirty-six millions to against forty-four millions of expenditure that would not be denied, where now he has a revenue of eighty millions to go upon. Consider that the disbursements upon all ordinary services of administration had then to be kept down to thirty-seven millions, for which there was not the ready money, where now he can still go sixty-seven millions, and still have millions to spare. Consider that he has found revenue for four millions of money to put into capital expenditure, and that in doing it he has added only a trifle over eight millions to the net debt of the country. Consider that the assets of the treasury were sixty-seven millions when he came in, and are now 125 millions. Consider that he found the customs revenue twenty millions, and now gets forty-six millions from it. Consider that he found the excise revenue eight millions, and now gets fourteen millions from it. Consider that he found the post office revenue under three millions, where it is now six millions. Consider that he found the government railway earnings lost over three millions, and that they are now six millions. All these marvels, for such they must have appeared had any one ventured to predict their occurrence ten years ago, have come to pass while one man has been quietly, and very unobtrusively, serving his term in an office, to which he was called by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, from his place in the Nova Scotia legislature, where he already had made a record of unvarying success. It may be doubted whether any other finance minister, save only Mr. Gladstone, in a larger sphere, has seen such remarkable and uninterrupted progress. No wonder when it is looked into, people shiver at their absence from the corridors their belief in his ability to make as good a tariff now as he made in 1897.

More Jay Times: On Friday evening, December 28th, the marriage of Mr. W. J. Rowe and Miss Edna P. Simpson, was solemnized in St. John the Evangelist's Church, Rev. W. J. Johnson, assisted by Rev. John Chivers, performed the ceremony. Mr. A. C. Overy gave away the bride. The choir was present and Mr. Newton presided at the organ. The bride wore a cream satin dress, over cream tulle, with a veil and orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of cream roses. Miss Viola Simpson, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Rev. T. E. Rowe supported the groom, and Mr. G. T. Cross and Mr. H. Y. Smith, acted as ushers.

Manitoba Liberal: One of the most important projects now on foot in the province is the proposed La Ronge canal, for some time past has been discussed. It is a project which will connect the black occupied by Dr. S. B. Covert at the price of $12,000. This property has 10 to 12 feet frontage on Saskatchewan avenue, one block from the town hall. Another important deal in avenue property was concluded today when Mr. Phillips, of the Manitoba Land and Investment Co., sold twenty feet of frontage on the avenue to H. Pierce at $120 per foot.

Business Times: The action told by A. C. Palmer and N. H. Blair upon a majority of the stock of the Alberta Coal Co. has been taken up. This extensive coal property, which has near Lundbreck, will now be developed. The coal there is similar to that of the Lundbreck mine, and is a first-class product, and in much demand on the prairie.

Business Times: On Friday afternoon of last week while Mr. and Mrs. Van Curen, of Coleman, were driving home from Frank, they had quite a serious runaway accident. Their horse

Le Sueur, one of the Ottawa's best drivers, has a good stock he has used for five years. It is pretty well battered up and built together by wood and iron, but he hopes it will last throughout the present season.
